TELLURIUM Q
STATEMENT

Reviewed: January 2019 issue

Tellurium Q are famous for refusing to elucidate on the construction of their cables or even the materials used within. Let's just say it's against founder Geoff Merrigan's ethos.

However, once you hear the Tellurium Q Statements it doesn't really matter. A flagship model, once plugged in it is like unleashing the power of your system - or rather not throttling it like other cables do. Bass is more powerful, high-frequencies more defined while the mid-band is richer with greater detail. It's as though a veil has been lifted from the face of your equipment. What they do best is make music more organic, more natural and, crucially, more exciting.

From Motley Crue to New Order to Beethoven everything comes alive. Plugged into a variety of amplifiers they never failed to make a difference - even in fairly mid-range systems. But the better the system the bigger the difference. Statement seems an appropriate name as they set a standard for others to follow. Plug in and enjoy.
